From the National live. BARK HOURS.

BY CAROLINE A. BRIGGS.

Oh, my tired soul, be patient!-Roughest rinds Fold over sweetest fruitage; heaviest clouds Rain the most ample harvests on the fields; The grass grows greenest where the wintry snow Have fallen deepest, and the fairest flowers Spring from old, dead decay. The darkest mine Yields the most flashing jewels from its cell, And stars are born of darkness, day of night Oh, my tried soul, be patient !- Yet for thee Goes on the secret alchemy of life; God, the One-Giver, grants no boon to earth That He withholds from thee; and from the dark Of thy deep sorrow shall evolve new light, New strength to do and suffer, new resolves, Perchance new gladnesses and freshest hopes Oh, there are times when I can no more weep That I have suffered, for I know great strength Is born of suffering; and I trust that still, Wrapt in the dry husk of my outer life, Lie warmer seeds than ever yet have burst From its dull covering; stronger purposes Stir consciously within, and make me great With a new life-a life akin to God's-Which I must nurture for the holy skies. Help me, thou great All-Patient! for the flesh Will sometimes falter, and the spirit fail; Add to my human Thy diviner strength, When next I waver; rouse my faith as now, That out of darkness I may see great light, And follow where it ever leads—to Thee

Editors' Correspondence.

[From our Baltimore Correspondent.]

BALTIMORE, July 10-10 p. m. The excursion of Whigs from Baltimore to join the celebration at the anniversary of the battle of Lundy's Lane will be quite large. Already over one hundred names are subscribed, and many more will no doubt put down their names.

The spirit of enthusiasm is every day manifesting itself unmistakably in the Whig ranks. Those who were at first somewhat careless are now among the most enthusiastic in favor of Gen. Scott and his noble companion, Mr. Graham. The sober second thought brought them to their senses. They in their more reflecting moments drew a comparison between the two candidates. In the conquerer of Mexico they saw a man eminently distinguished—one whose history stands out in bold relief; in all of whose publicacts there is a positive grandeur-a something tangible-past deeds indicative of capacity to accomplish work in the future. In the other they saw no history of later date than the Democratic Convention of June, 1852-no evidence of greatness: in fact. nothing but a brief record of negatives. The only distinguishing characteristics of this man's life are such as warrant a poor guaranty for the future, either civil or military. Being thus situated, it became a matter of serious concern with the malcontents, and they at once not only abandoned the idea of standing aloof, but were even astonished at themselves for hesitating a moment about voting for Gen. Scott, when not to do so would be indirectly aiding so inferior an opposi-

I was about to say I would almost vote for "Old Nick" himself, if brought out by an intelligent Whig Convention, in opposition to any Democratic candidate. We are not to look at the men-measures, not men, should be the motto of every true American. There is nothing in Democracy, such as now distinguishes what is called the Democratic party, that can claim admiration. Is it possible, then, that any sensible Whig-one who really deserves the name and honor of Whig fellowship-can for a moment hesitate in voting the entire ticket, "flat-footed," as they say out West?

The war is against modern Democracy and its destructive principles. With so gallant a leader as General Scott-a man of the nation-and whose patriotism has been sanctified by his own blood on the field of battle, how can it be possible for an honest Whig to withhold from him his vote? This sentiment is beginning to take hold of the rapidly; and my word for it, Messrs. Toombs, Stephens & Co. will find that, notwithstanding their puerile, imbecile, and ridiculously absurd pronunciamento, the bone and sinew, not only of Georgia, but all the States, will pronounce against them on the day of election. They will then realize how insignificant is their influence. How poorly the honest yeomanry of the country appreciate their fancied greatness! A good Whig within the precincts of their own domicils Elections Preceding the Election of will spurn their distortions, and esteem it a pleasure to show to their teeth that they have assumed an importance to which they have no just title.

General Scott and General Pierce-who in the name of Heaven can hesitate for a monent which to choose? General Scott positive, and General Pierce negative—that is the question.

CHESAPEAKE.

THE CHOLERA.—This dreaded disease prevails at different localities in the West and Southwest, though it has not yet assumed an epidemic form. At Hopkinsville and Knoxville, Kentucky, it has prevailed considerably and been attended with great fatality. At Millersburg and Fairfield, in the same State, a number of deaths had occurred and the panic created was such that the inhabitants were deserting their homes. At other points in the State the disease had also made its appearance, but was abating at the last accounts. Springfield, Illinois, and along the line of the Wabash canal, in Illinois, the disease had also manifested itself. The New Orleans Picayune denies the report that the cholera was prevailing as an epidemic in that city, and says that there were only eighteen deaths by that disease in the Charity Hospital during the preceding week. On the other hand, the Picayune says the rumors from the country represent the plantations to be visited by the cholera, slaves swept off, &c.

"FUSS AND FEATHERS."-A couple of " colored gemmen" were overheard discussing politics in Broadway this morning. One says to the other, "What makes 'em call General Scott Ole Fuss "Why, Lor, Sam, don't you know? It's case he's fuss in war, fuss in peace, and fuss in the de hearts ob de country people.

New York Mirror.

"GENTEEL."—The Mirror has a puff of the Revere House, Boston, in the course of which the words genteel and gentility occur more than half a dozen times. We are sorry to be obliged to re-mind our neighbor and sometimes vis-a-vis, that these words are tabooed in good society, and never by any chance made use of by anybody above an upper servant or the landlady of a "genteel" boarding-house.—N. Y. Morning Star.

General Gabriel Villere, of Louisiana, died re-General Gabriel Villere, of Louisiana, died recently at his plantation below New Orleans. His father's house was attacked by the English during their approach on New Orleans, and all the family put under arrest. Young Villere, however, managed to escape, and, making his way to the city, gave General Jackson the first information of the approach of the enemy.

1. The government of the United States is of a limited character, and it is confined to the exercise of powers expressly granted by the constitution, and such as may be necessary and proper for carrying the granted powers into full execu-tion; and that all powers not thus granted or necessarily implied are expressly reserved to the States, respectively, and to the people.

2. The State governments should be held secure in their respectively. cure in their reserved rights, and the general gov-ernment sustained in its constitutional powers, and the Union should be revered and watched over as "the palladium of our liberties."

3. That, while struggling freedom everywhere enlists the warmest sympathy of the Whig party, we still adhere to the doctrines of the Father of his Country, as announced in his Farewell Address, of keeping ourselves free from all entan gling alliances with foreign countries, and of never quitting our own to stand upon foreign That our mission as a republic is not to propagate our opinions, or impose on other countries our form of government by artifice or force, but to teach by example, and show, by our success, moderation, and justice, the blessings of self-government and the advantages of free institutions.

4. That where the people make and control the government, they should obey its constitution, laws, and treaties, as they would retain their self-respect and the respect which they claim and will enforce from foreign powers.

5. Government should be conducted upon principles of the strictest economy, and revenue sufient for the expenses thereof, in time of peace, ought to be mainly derived from a duty on im-ports, and not from direct taxes; and in levying ich duties, sound policy requires a just discrimination, and protection from fraud by specific du-ties when practicable, whereby suitable encourent may be assured to American industry, equally to all classes and to all portions of the

The constitution vests in Congress the power to open and repair harbors, and remove obstruc-tions from navigable rivers; and it is expedient that Congress should exercise that power, whenever such improvements are necessary for the common defence, or for the protection and facility of ommerce with foreign nations or among States; such improvements being, in every in-stance, national and general in their character. 7. The federal and State governments are parts of one system, alike necessary for the common prosperity, peace, and security, and ought to be regarded alike with a cordial, habitaal, and immovable attachment. Respect for the authority of each, and acquiescence in the constitu-tional measures of each, are duties required by the plainest considerations of national, of State, and of individual welfare.

8. The series of acts of the 31st Congress commonly known as the Compromise or Adjustment (the act for the recovery of fugitives from labor neluded) are received and acquiesced in by the Whigs of the United States as a final settlement, n principle and substance, of the subjects to which they relate; and, so far as these acts are concerned, we will maintain them, and insist on their strict enforcement, until time and experience shall demonstrate the necessity of further legislation, to guard against the evasion of the laws on the one hand, and the abuse of their powers on the other-not impairing their present efficiency to carry out the requirements of the constitution; and we deprecate all further agitation of the questions thus settled, as dangerous to our peace, and will discountenance all efforts to continue or renew such agitation, whenever wherever, or however made; and we will main tain this settlement as essential to the nationality of the Whig party and the integrity of the Union.

THE LUNGS

ARE THE BREATHING APPARATUS OF THE SYSTEM.

When the Lungs are in a state of decay they are unable to receive or emit the necessary amount of air requisite to sustain life. The greater the atmospheric pressure upon the air-cells, the more painful, irritable, and suffocating is the weight upon the lungs.

They are in ten-feet lengths, with accurately-fitted brass-serve connecting joints, an entire new style of metallic (patented) attachments, for brick or frame buildings; also, glass isolaters, of a novel and ingenious construction, (patented), forming a lock; the whole mounted with a solid platinum silver point, (patented), where the construction is a surrounded at the base with three angular negative magnets, which possess the power, to an extraordinary extent, of discharging the opposite elements of the most fearful thunderstorm, and embrace the entire perfection of science up to the present time; the whole constituting the most magnificent and perfect aflent conductor ever presented to the public.

Safety has not been compromised by affording these excellent rods at such low rates; the greatest attention has been given to their construction, so as to be readily attached. The astonishing power of the negative magnets, in discharging the air of its opposite elements, has been clearly demonstrated by the Electrometer, when unmagnetized points have shown but slight results, though placed under the same conditions. In fact, they gather and silently discharge electricity from the atmosphere when you would scarcely suspect any being present.

These improvements being secured by double letters patent, you are hereby cautioned against laying yourselves liable, by purchasing of those who are not authorized, or who are substituting inferior imitations. All agents duly appointed can show their certificates. Have good roos or onne.

CHARLES W. HEYDON,

Washington City.

I do hereby certify that I have app lied various powerful chemical re-agents to Spratt's Patent Points for Lightning Rods, and that the results of these experiments convince me that they will resist the action of atmospheric causes, and thereby preserve the extremity sharp—a condition most essential to protection against lightning. The re-agents used in the above experiments were a solution of chloride of a dium, (common sait), acetic acid, sulphuric acid, and hydrochloric acid. With the first, there was no action on the metal; with the several acids, there was very slight—a fact sufficient to show that atmospheric influences would have no sensible effect.

JOHN LECONTE, Prof. of Nat. Phil. et Chem.

UNIVERSITY OF GA., October 8, 1850.

The Lightning Conductors of Mr. Spratt, offered to me, are well calculated to perform the office for which they are intended. Yours, truly,

Prof. ROBT. PETER.

Chicago, September 3, 1850.

This may certify that I have examined, somewhat critically, James Spratt's Patent Lightning Rods, and that I am of opinion that it is constructed on scientific principles. For embining durability, cheapness, and efficacy, I deem it equal, and I think superior, to any other rod ever offered for my inspection.

Prof. JAS. V. Z. BLANEY.

equal, and I think superior, to any other rod ever offered Prof. JAS. V. Z. BLANEY.

AUGUSTA, (GA.) November 11, 1850.

This will certify that I have examined the Lightning Rods, Metallic Points, and Isolating Attachments, manufactured by Mr. Spratt, and regard them as constructed in conformity to the general laws of the electric fluid; and the metallic compound constituting the Points, as promising, from the result of several tests to which they were submitted, to resist for years the action of those atmospheric causes most likely to corrode them.

A. MEANS,
Prof. Phys. Sc., Emory College, Ga., and Prof. Chem. and Pharm., Medical College, Ga.

The Lightning Conductors put up by Mr. Henry M. Smith, rnarm., medical college, Ga.

The Lightning Conductors put up by Mr. Henry M. Smith, of this city, on the plan of Mr. Spratt, appear to me to be sery well devised; and, in point of mechanical construction, very well devised; and, in point of mechanical construction, are the best 1 have ever seen.

It is to be hoped that the use of these Rods may become general, as an unportant auxiliary defence against a danger which must be regarded as of no ordinary magnitude, to which all buildings are liable.
